Dear Gerald Swope,

Best evidence is neither, it is not best and it is not evidence, other than what had been published years earlier, the first part of that book.

For which he took credit as his own work.

The last part is not a theory. It is a fabrication. He had to know it was impossible at every one of his imagined steps in it.

If you ask yourself why when he bases it on that Sibert - O'Neill report in so large a book he did not publish it and then read that paragraph from it, in Post Mortem, you will see the answer: it destroys the rest of his concoction.

I appreciate your letter. Thanks for it.

Best wishes,

Harold
